

The Hotel's Environmental Policy

Vrissaki Beach Hotel strives to reduce the environmental impact of its activities, in accordance with the requirements of Tour Operators and applicable environmental legislation. The Hotel's environmental policy encourages:

- The development of the feeling of responsibility towards the environment by all staff
- The inclusion of environmental issues in daily work considering environmental protection as an opportunity and not as a threat
- The assessment of the environmental impact of all activities, products and processes
- Compliance with applicable environmental legislation, taking into account both future changes to our current operations and possible future changes to the legislation itself
- The adoption of legal and technical documents regarding the environment
- The application of production techniques that make optimal use of raw materials and energy, and limit the creation of waste that is intertwined with the production processes.
- The implementation of the necessary measures to prevent, terminate or reduce pollution, emissions and the creation of waste as well as to preserve and protect natural resources
- The installation and implementation of procedures for monitoring compliance with the environmental policy
- Cooperation with state authorities to adopt procedures to limit the environmental impact of any waste spills into the environment
- Providing the public with the necessary information to understand our environmental impact and participating in open public dialogues
- The continuous improvement of the procedures, the degree of preparedness in cases of emergency and the monitoring by the Administration with the aim of increasing the efficiency and reliability of the Management System
- In the progress regarding the achievement of the environmental goals and objectives set by the Directorate, through internal and external evaluations and controls
- Adopting and complying with the strictest levels of health, safety and environmental protection Management is responsible for making this Policy available to all staff and the public. The Environmental Management System of the Vrissaki Beach Hotel is based on the ISO 14001 Standard and it is the company's responsibility to ensure that all staff comply with the Standard.
